Execution Conditions

Spoofing
Any account using a bot that places many pending orders without the intention of triggering them is an illegal activity that requires investigation.

Quote Stuffing
Flooding the market with orders to slow down the system response on their account, which in return, ensures that a slippage will occur so their bot jumps in with a higher volume trade and takes advantage of this slip

Front Running
Correlated to Quote Stuffing with the only difference is that these trades will cause a Flash Crash for other clients/accounts.

Then, these other clients/accounts take advantage of this Flash Crash using their Bots as well

Transparency
There are requirements for traders and firms to disclose their use of algorithmic trading systems to regulatory bodies then these Traders will be able to freely trade using an Algo.

All trades should comply with the rules and regulations of the markets involved. Avoid exploiting technical or systemic vulnerabilities in trading platforms or exchanges.

Fairness
Ensure that your strategies do not disrupt market operations or unfairly disadvantage other participants.

All traded on accounts using algorithms with the intention to exploit vulnerability in the trading platform will be reversed and the account may incur further penalties.

Global DTT reserves the right to hold any accounts suspected of violating the terms above suspended for 90 days for a full investigation in each trade before a final decision is taken and penalties may apply.
